Evans Resigns; Blanks Named To Planning Board

Mayor Horace Lyon announced the resignation of Carmel Planning Commission Chairman Keith Evans at the city council meeting last night and proposed Herbert Blanks, one of the partners in The Ailing House Pest Control, to serve the two remaining years of Evans' unexpired term.

Evans, who has served on the commission nine months, said that he did not have time to give as much attention to planning commission work as it demanded. The afternoon meetings were especially difficult for him since they conflicted with his business hours.

Beverly Terrace Changes Hands In $300,000 Deal

Beverly Terrace, owned and operated by Mrs. Esther Jones, changed hands this week in a real estate transaction handled by D. J. Morgan and Phil Wilson. The Terrace is now the property of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walton of Monterey. Besides a cash settlement received by Mrs. Jones, she will also take in exchange the historic Preble house on Hawthorne Street in New Monterey, now known as Casa Vista Lodge and owned and operated by the Waltons. Mrs. Jones will take over the running of the Casa Vista while the Waltons plan to operate and do extensive remodeling at Beverly Terrace. The sale involved over $300,000 in property values.

Board Proposes To Close Bay School

Letters are being mailed out today to inform parents in the Highlands that since there are only 11 pupils at Bay School, the board proposes to close the school temporarily, at the end of this term, and bring the teacher in to teach at River School.

This arrangement will save the district about $6000.

Patty Elston, Cynthia Cox, Anne Treseder First In Legion Auxiliary Contest

Winners were announced this week in the annual American Legion Auxiliary Americanism Essay Contest. First place in Group One went to Anne Treseder of the Fifth grade at Sunset School, second place to James Edwards, Sixth grade, Junipero Serra school. The subject in this group was George Washington, and was open to pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in both schools.

Group two wrote on The Star Spangled Banner. Patty Elston, a freshman at Carmel High School, took first place and Gail MacKenzie, also a freshman, was second. Competition was open to the seventh, eighth and ninth grades in Sunset, Junipero and the High School.

One Nation Under God was the subject which students in the tenth and eleventh grades at the High School were asked to discuss. Cynthia Cox placed first and Joan Hamilton, second. Both are juniors.

Americanism certificates and checks will be given to these students on Wednesday evening at the open house meeting of Carmel (Continued on Page Twelve)

Blanks has been a Carmel resident for 11 years, making his home here after his release from the army. He discovered Carmel during the war, left his family here while he served with the military government in the Pacific, and after the war, with Gene Scheffer for a partner, established a pest control business, since there was no such service here at the time, and as a botanist he could see the need for it.

A graduate in forestry of the University of California, class of 1937, Blanks served two years as a ranger in the Tahoe National Forest, and then, with the National Park service, in Sequoia until the war. He met his wife, Roxana, while they were both students at University of California, and they were married two days after graduation.

They have three boys: George 14, who is a student at Carmel High School, Herbert 13, who attends Sunset, and Donald 7, who goes to River School.

Blanks is Scout Master for Troop 86, is in the Army Reserve, belongs to the Masons and sings in the choir of the Church of the Wayfarer. He also is a member of the board of trustees of the church.

Parking District Killed; One Cent Sales Tax On Way

Carmel Elects Silliman But Co. Wants Farr

Carmel voters turned out 1316 strong and voted for Republican James Silliman overwhelmingly over Fred Farr, Democrat, for state senator in the special election held Tuesday. But the rest of the county didn't see it that way and Silliman acknowledged defeat around 11:00 o'clock the same night. So comfortable is Farr's margin, 1,700 plus that the 400 plus absentee ballots cannot affect the results.

Unofficial county-wide returns give Farr 13,500 plus; Silliman, 11,800 plus.

Pebble Beach, Carmel Valley, The Highlands, Carmel Unincorporated and Pacific Grove, went along with Carmel in preferring Silliman.

How Carmel voted:
Consolidated precincts voting at Comstocks: Farr, 291; Silliman, 415. Total, 707. Consolidated precincts voting at Sunset: Farr 242, Silliman 367. Total 609.

Three years of hoping and working for a parking district by one group of Carmel citizens have been nullified by a month's petition-passing activity on the part of another group. Last night at the continued public hearing before the city council on a proposed parking district for Carmel, City Clerk Peter Mawdsley reported that the petition protesting the establishment of the district contained 119 valid signatures of owners of $1,680,130 worth of business property, 61.2 percent of the total assessed value of the property in the district. Only 51 percent was needed. The district was automatically killed.

Nudity Ord. Tabled By City Council

To the intense disappointment of local space rate correspondents for the city papers, Carmel Council provided no circus for them last night when the proposed ordinance requiring men to wear more than just bathing trunks in the business district came up on the agenda at the end of a long session devoted to more important matters.

City Attorney Tom Perry said that, in compliance with his instructions at the last meeting, he has prepared an ordinance on minimum clothing requirements, but it was a difficult matter and (Continued on Page Four)

No action was required by the council, and before the other members could make any statements of regret or criticism, Councilman John Chitwood made a motion that the city attorney be instructed to bring in an ordinance at the June meeting to increase the city sales tax to one cent to be effective July 1 and that the mayor call a public hearing to get the reaction of the citizens to such an increase.

Before any discussion on this proposal could get under way Carl Patnude seconded the motion.

Francis Whitaker protested that Carmel has a 55 cent property tax rate and a half cent sales tax. The one cent sales tax would be out of proportion to the property tax. The increase in sales tax would be to provide parking which would increase the value of business property. He thought this (Continued on Page Four)

2nd Anl. Williams-Lofton Death Valley Expedition, Official Report, Part 1

BY NANCY LOFTON

This is an attempt to answer that perennial question, "Well, what do you do in Death Valley?"

The second annual Williams-Lofton expedition to Death Valley set out on the evening of April 15, equipped with a four-wheel drive jeep, 13 stretched canvases, an eggbeater, a five-year old child named Melissa, a French dictionary, Freud On Humour, Speilberg On the Religion of No Religion, 11 gallons of gasoline in extra tins (ten regular and one white), and food and water for several days. Extra racks had been built on the outside and top of the car by the men of the expedition, Russell Williams and Richard Lofton, to hold gasoline, water, a shovel, an ax and painting equipment.

Sunday morning as we huddled around the snow banks at Mahogany Flats at an elevation of 8370 feet, waiting for the sun to rise over Death Valley below us, we paid a solemn tribute to the friends who had helpfully suggested it might be a little late in the season to go to Death Valley. "It will be pretty hot there now, won't it?", they said.

Coming up through the Mojave Desert the day before, we first met the companion who was to be with us for the next ten days, the wind. It sang through the power lines marching across the sloping spaces and bowed down the desert flowers. We stopped briefly in Trona to admire the asphalt streets, sticky beneath our feet in a short space of warmth, and then entered the wind again. Wandering off the track to visit the ghost town of Ballarat, we found the first of a large group of uranium hunters. Most of the ruined adobe walls sheltered expensive cars left behind as their owners took off to the hills to look for claims. We found one old house with walls and roofs intact in which we settled down for a meal, a fine affair of fried chicken and avocado salad prepared by Cynthia Williams, bursar and chatelaine of the expedition, while the wind howled and beat a rapid theme on the corrugated roof of our shelter. After lunch we made the first collecting trip of our expedition, beginning with a few fine specimens of weathered bits of glass turned deep amethyst by the desert sun.

We entered the Death Valley country through Wild Rose Canyon, climbing steadily over increasingly rugged roads until we (Continued on Page Twelve)

Presbyterians To Lay Cornerstone Of New Church Sunday

Dr. Williams will also present as the speaker representing the Monterey Peninsula, Colonel Allen Griffin.

Jimmy Griffin will be the soloist at both services.

The closing prayer and benediction of the service will be given by the Rev. Dr. Bernard N. Lovgren of St. John's Chapel, Del Monte. At the 11:00 o'clock service, the Rev. Dr. Harris Pillsbury and the Rev. Tod Sperling will assist the minister.

CCAL TRACK FINALS AT SALINAS SATURDAY

If Jupiter Pluvius will cooperate for a few days, the 1955 Coast Counties Athletic League track championships will be contested at the Salinas High track this Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. Trials in all events of the lightweight and varsity divisions were run off yesterday and the fortunate finalists will vie for places which qualify them for the sub-section meet which is slated for the Stanford oval on May 14th. As in the past few seasons, it appears that the big schools of the A division will qualify the majority of the contestants for a right to compete with the best in Northern California when the North Coast Section Meet is held on May 24th. Carmel High's best chances rest in the lightweight shot-put and 330-yard run. Don Petty, Padre lightweight shot-putter has been flirting with 60-feet in the eight-pound shot event and this could be good enough to win first in the NCS. Bob Alvarez, a swift and rugged 330 man, will make the best in the CCAL go all out to keep him from qualifying for the sub-section. In the heavyweight division, the Padres will go with a pair of distance runners, Mervyn Sutton in the half-mile and George Wightman in the mile. Both lads have times which compare favorably with the best in the league and stand a good chance to reach the Stanford Meet. Field event specialist, Mike Mosolf, could qualify in the high jump if he is in top form. The lanky Padre jumper has reached 5-10 in practice jumps this season and this should be good enough for a try at the sub-section competition. Clyde Klammann, Carmel's most-improved track performer, will go after a place in the quarter-mile event which is glorified by the presence of the 1954 State champion, Eddie King.

CARMEL NINE HOSTS GILROY TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Realizing that a loss will drop them from B league contention, the Carmel High School baseball team entertains the Gilroy Mustang aggregation tomorrow afternoon at Bardarson Field. Currently in second place with a 3-1 record in league play, the Padres must win this one to keep within striking distance of league-leading Pacific Grove, sporting a 4-0 record for the season. Coach Tom Burt's Gilroy nine has had an in-and-out season, winning from Gonzales and King City but dropping decisions to Pacific Grove, Hollister, and Morgan Hill. Familiar stars in other sports cavort for the Mustang nine which is predominantly a sophomore-junior club. Brilliant quarterback, Ron Leonti, is on the Gilroy pitching staff and plays an infield position when not on the mound. Top hitter on the club is "Moose" Mazzucca, 200-pound all-around athlete who was a star tackle in football and played on Gilroy's championship basketball team.

Diminutive Billy Powell draws the pitching assignment for the Padres tomorrow and he will have Bob Michela as a battery mate. Dick Jennings and Mike Mosolf, a pair of capable righthanders, will be ready for relief duty.

CARMEL TENNIS TEAM PLAYS MONTEREY TODAY

Coach Ray Gere and his surprising Carmel High tennis team will host Bob Clark's Monterey High team at the Padre courts this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Carmel racquet-wielders are close on the trail of league-leading Santa Cruz and need a win over Monterey to make next week's match with the Cardinals a real league crucial. Victors over Salinas, Gilroy, and Pacific Grove so far this season, Captain John Zellhoefer and his crew are anxious to add Monterey to the victory list. Carmel High has never defeated Monterey in tennis so tomorrow's matches could have great historical significance.

Taking the courts for the Padres in tomorrow's Peninsula tennis natural will be Captain John Zellhoefer, Jon Menand, Hampton Stewart, John Ross, Roger Newell and Bobby Potter.

SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIPS AT WATSONVILLE WED.

Top swimmers from Monterey, Pacific Grove, Carmel, Santa Cruz and Watsonville will vie for league honors in the Watsonville pool next Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Swimmers who place in this meet will qualify for the North Coast Section Meet which is slated for the Santa Clara pool on Saturday, May 21st.

A look at the dual meet records indicates that Monterey High rates the favorite spot in both the lightweight and heavyweight divisions. The Toreadore splashes hold wins over both Watsonville and Carmel, the two schools figuring to give the green and gold squads the most competition. Carmel has a fine chance to upset Monterey in the lightweight division if the relay teams give out with their very best performance.

Carmel's lightweight team will go after points with Bob Durbrow, Charles Baird, Doug Smith,

CIRCLING THE BASES

It's a comforting thought to know that baseball, our National Pastime, is booming as never before. With youngsters of all ages having an opportunity to swing a bat in the Little League, Pony League, Babe Ruth League, American Legion League, and numerous informal recreation leagues, the game has truly been given back to the boys. Adult baseball of the semi-pro variety has tailed off in recent years but with graduates of all the kid leagues coming along, look for an upsurge from the bush leagues also. . . . When the popular Adult Softball League swings into action this summer, rival coaches are advised to load up when playing the Carmel Pros, last summer's champions. A recent addition to the Pro club is Bill Wakefield, new Carmel Recreation Director, who has starred in softball competition for enough years to qualify him to play with the Pros. . . . Carmel High's famous pickoff play, which has wiped out 24 runners at second base this season, worked successfully three times as the Padres edged Monterey's Serra, 4 to 3, last Thursday afternoon. Carmel also engineered a successful pickoff against the Santa Cruz Cardinals at the Seahawk Stadium Tuesday afternoon, but the scoreboard read real unfavorable for the local preps—Santa Cruz 21, Carmel 14—the placekickers were converting pretty good anyway. On the same afternoon, Carmel's B squad played a 10-inning thriller with the Cardinal Reserves and notched a 4-3 victory. Dick Jennings and Bill Powell shared pitching chores and doled out two blows over the 10-inning route.

HAL BOYD DEFEATED

Friday night's heavy rains proved too much for Hal Boyd, his daughter Carol, and Oliver Martin, who had planned an opening-of-fishing-season weekend in the far reaches of the Sur River. They set up camp at the foot of the trail Friday evening, preparatory to hiking up stream the next day, but the heavens opened, so wet and weary, they arrived home in the early hours of the morning and the trout have a respite.

Music Teaching Examinations At Hopkins Studio

Examinations for the Collegiate and Child Specialist degrees in Music Teaching will be conducted Monday at the Edward Hopkins Studio in Monterey. This is an annual event of the California Music Teachers' Association under their California Plan to standardize and guarantee musical education by private teachers. Dr. Frederick Freeman of the State Board and Mme. Winifred L. Fisher will meet those interested, by appointment, at that time.

A Bill, No. 22, was presented in the California Legislature by Assemblyman Donald Doyle last Wednesday, looking toward the licensing of private music teachers in this State. Its fate is not yet known but the movement in this direction is strong at the present time. Alameda County Branch of the Association has demanded that all of its members qualify under these examinations for recognition as professional teachers of music.

Carmel Teachers Granted $14,030 Increase in New Salary Schedule

Carmel school board, at a special meeting Monday night, granted a $14,030 teachers' salary increase and adopted all other provisions of the new salary schedule proposed by the teachers. Total teacher payroll for 1955-56 will be $330,000. This is $47,096 greater than this year's, but $33,066 of it represents salaries for six new teachers and automatic raises and bonuses earned under the old salary schedule, and would have had to be paid whether or not the new schedule was accepted.

There was one dissenting vote. Chairman of the Board J. O. Handley said he thought the teachers deserved the raise but the board has no business spending money it doesn't have.

Budget Controller Peter Mawdsley had previously explained that the money would be available from expected increase in the assessment role, but the pay-as-you-go building program will have to be abandoned after the new class rooms at River School are completed this fall.

Board Member Gordon Campbell felt that good teachers are more important than a building program. The board had been told by Superintendent Stuart Mitchell that it is becoming increasingly difficult to get good teachers when other schools offer higher pay for beginning teachers and greater inducement for teachers to remain on the staff after they become better qualified. Carmel has been trading on its climate and environment to offset lower salaries.

Handley proposed that the new salary schedule be held over a year until a bond issue election could be called to provide funds for building purposes and that the teachers' raises be contingent upon the success of the election. This was firmly dismissed by the other board members.

Then Handley wanted to know, "Why does this have to come up every year? Why can't we get a salary schedule that will be good for five or ten years?"

He was told that state law required a review of salaries every year; also that economic conditions change from year to year.

Everybody gets a raise on the new schedule which has been christened "D". Beginning teachers get $75 a year more; teachers in the top brackets get $360 a year more. Only four teachers in the Carmel school system qualify for this top-bracket raise.

The four steps in the schedule provide automatic raises from year to year but in addition one can qualify for a higher "step", a better salary bracket, by taking additional professional training. The final step is for people with masters' degrees and better.

"Hurdles", which in the old schedule jumped teachers into a higher salary bracket because of travel or other efforts at cultural improvement have been eliminated.

The teachers asked that the board change its policy on sabbatical leave. The board at one time included in its statement of policy, that it "may" grant sabbatical leave to a teacher who has been on the staff for seven years, and "may" give the teacher on sabbatical the difference between his salary and that of his substitute. The teachers wanted this latter to read "may give half salary" to the teacher on sabbatical.

Handley balked at this, too. What if it's somebody we want to go and not come back?" he growled. He didn't think they should bind future boards by a change in the statement of policy. He didn't see any point in doing anything about it, anyway, since nobody had asked for sabbatical this year. The other members felt there was no point in not making the change in statement since nothing they said or did about it was binding and Mitchell said it would be good for the morale of the teachers. Handley continued to mutter but he didn't vote no on this one.

Parking District Killed; 1 Cent Sales Tax On The Way

unfair. Parking lots should be paid for by property taxes not sales taxes.

Councilwoman Geraldine Smith said she had been consistently opposed to sales taxes. Also she did not think it right to impose a sales tax before the budget sessions when, as yet, the city's financial needs had not been determined. "I don't think it's right to do it now just to bail out the parking district."

Chitwood said: "Everybody is aware the proposed district was very inadequate with 40 stalls at a cost of $80,000. What is needed is 400 stalls with a possible cost of $200,000. You can't raise that through property tax."

Whitaker pointed out that the city has need of land for an equipment yard. "If we are going to buy property with tax funds we should buy property for the people as a whole before we buy parking property for business people. I am not sure it is a municipal function to provide parking for business." In the lively exchange that followed Whitaker observed, "If we do anything for the vested interests in the business district, we are performing our sacred duty. If we do anything for the residents it is an accident."

Another fact brought out in the discussion was that the option on the parking lot opposite the post office expires May 8.

When Chitwood's motion came to a vote, there were four yeses and Whitaker's no. Councilwoman Smith voted yes, saying that she'd go along with the idea since it involved an opportunity for the people to be heard before final action would be taken.

After the ordinance is brought in for first reading at the June meeting, the Mayor will set a time for a public hearing on it and invite comment from the citizens.

Nudity Ordinance Tabled By Council

"perhaps needs further study."

Councilman John Chitwood concurred: "I think we had a lot of fun out of this and we could study it for the next 20 years with profit. I move we table it."

This met with the unanimous approval of the rest of the council and Carl Patnude said that if they wanted to legislate against nudity they might do something about "this", the this being a pocket size magazine with pictures of some girls in medium undress. Before anybody could suggest a censorship ordinance on books and magazines, a member of the audience pointed out that the city already has one, passed ten years ago at the instigation of a church group.

Other business of the meeting: It was decided to hire Lawrence Livingston, Jr., to make a master plan for the city for about $5000.

Petitioners for annexation of the Walker Tract to Carmel were told that it was necessary for them to obtain a legal description of their boundaries and that it would be necessary for them to persuade the county to bring their streets and drainage up to standard before the city would give permission for them to circulate a petition for annexation.

A letter from the county boundary committee informed the council that the county did not approve of the city's annexing the extension of Carpenter Street between city limits and proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway without annexing also the adjacent residence property.

Men's Chorus To Be Soloist At Women's Chorus Free Concert

The Monterey Peninsula P.T.A. Women's Chorus, which is sponsored jointly by the Monterey Peninsula Council P.T.A. and the Carmel Adult School, will present a Spring Concert to the community on Tuesday evening, at the Carmel High School Cafetorium at 8:00 o'clock. Appearing as guest artists will be another Carmel Adult School class, the Peninsula Male Chorus. Both groups are directed by John Farr and accompanied by Peggy Aitkenhead and Judy Paplow.

The program for the evening will feature three separate groups of songs by the Women's Chorus, a group of numbers by the Male Chorus and two piano solos. Songs will range from sacred numbers through familiar classics and modern arrangements. Mrs. Carl Daniels will be featured as soprano soloist in one choral arrangement of Panis Angelicus.

Chairman of the Women's Chorus is Mrs. Clarence Lamb of Seaside; secretary is Miss Frances Louda of Carmel; treasurer, Mrs. Edith Quinn of Carmel; hospitality chairman is Mrs. Floyd Adams of Carmel and publicity chairman is Mrs. Julian von Meier of Carmel.

There is no admission charge.

Local Painters On Teaching Staff At Carmel Art Studios

In a large bright corner of the new Carmel Craft Studios, the Carmel Studios of Art, directed by Louise Cardeiro Boyer, will offer private and class lessons in drawing, water color and oil painting, sculpture, and crafts by a group of instructors. Mrs. Boyer, whose painting has been exhibited widely in the East and recently in the Carmel Art Association and the San Francisco Museum of Art, will be at the new studio every day from ten to three, excepting Mondays, to take information and make registrations. Her own teaching will cover drawing, water color and oil painting; in addition Mrs. Boyer offers outdoor sketching, and classes for children.

Mr. Abel Warshawsky, whose reputation as a painter is well-known throughout the United States and Europe, will conduct a monthly "painting clinic" to which artists may bring their work for discussion and criticism. The first "clinic" will be held Thursday, May 26, at 2:00 o'clock.

Leon Amyx, head of the Art Department of Hartnell College, Salinas, painter and teacher of wide experience, will conduct a series of lecture-demonstration criticism classes in water color painting.

Clarence Bates, whose sculpture and painting have won him well-deserved reputation, will give private lessons and class instruction in sculpture (clay modeling) and painting, both in studio and outdoor sketching groups.

Virginia Conroy, whose individual painting is making a growing reputation, will teach oil painting upon her return from Europe in June.

The Carmel Studios of Art is planned to serve those who seek instruction under more than one teacher, those who feel drawn to one of the individual styles represented in the work of the staff, and visitors to this area who wish short concentrated periods of study. Craft instruction will be available upon request.

Word was received last week by Mrs. Dexter Whitcomb that her husband, Captain Dexter Whitcomb of the U.S. Dental Corps, had arrived by plane in Japan and will be stationed at Sendai just outside Tokyo.

Kapalani Dancers To Give Program For Our Lady Church

The Kapalani Dancers of Walnut Creek will give a program of Hawaiian dances on Saturday evening at 9:00 at Los Laureles Lodge in Carmel Valley for the benefit of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church.

This group of young people all formerly spent either vacations in Hawaii, or lived there, and met through their common interest in the old traditional dances of the Islands. One of the members was a teacher of Hawaiian dancing and so prepared them for public performance.

Costumes will be authentic and a narrator will tell the history and legends of the hulas they will dance. The accompanists will play the old percussion instruments used prior to the coming of the ukelele or guitar, made from pebbles, gourds and bamboo sticks. The Lodge will be decorated for the occasion with bamboo, feathered gourds, tapa cloth and other characteristic Hawaiian pieces.

Deep Blue Sea . . .

REVIEWED BY KATIE SCHLEPP

The Players Circle again has given to Carmel theatre-goers the sort of play that less ambitious and less professional groups might never attempt. Acclaimed originally in London, and performed in New York, The Deep Blue Sea by Terence Rattigan is the vehicle in which actresses would like to ride to fame. It is a psychological drama dealing with the development and growth of Hester Collyer, a woman who has forsworn an eminent and kindly jurist husband, has gone to live in London's West End with an ex-R.A.F. pilot who is troubled by his inability to face life and who has not yet been weaned psychologically from his former days of derring-do. In his fashion he loves her but realizes that he can never make her happy. And after the opening of the show, the lights going up on Hester's bungled suicide attempt, the mind of Freddy Page begins to accept the fact that he can only bring her grief, and so his character begins to take on a firmness that even a spree laced with Scotch cannot unmold. Ultimately he leaves her for her own good, stronger than he has been before.

Ruth Warshawsky as Hester gives a profoundly moving and brilliant performance, tempered with a gentleness that one would scarcely expect of one who is noted for her realistic portrayals of toughness in No Exit by Sartre and the Respectful Prostitute. So much emotion is called for, yet subtly toned for Players Circle, one might easily over-act in such a role, yet I felt that she restrained herself admirably. The trying and emotionally exhausting role of Hester might have daunted many a less-experienced player, but Ruth Warshawsky plays it with complete ease.

Freddy Page, as portrayed by William Grant, is interesting to watch as the play progresses, for, although he starts out rather inconclusively, his character and ability develop and his problems become pitiable rather than censurable. Mr. Grant's diction, slurred by his role of drunkenness, is a trifle over-slurred, but his portrayal is clean-cut and believable.

Bill Clark, as Mr. Miller the ex-medico, gives a very stirring performance, real, tense, and subtle. There is an underlying emotion coming through which is nothing short of masterful, and he holds his audience mentally, gripping their minds with his unspoken thoughts, putting compassion in their hearts for his own private misery. As Miller he gives an excellent portrayal.

Morgan Stock, the jurist-husband of Hester, does a consistently sympathetic and fine job throughout the show, breathing warmth into the role of Sir William, a part which is demanding in that it calls for the type who "also serves who only stands and waits". Gertrude Chappell as the kindly landlady does another of her wonderful character parts. Arlette Starmer and John Samuels are fine as the young couple upstairs, the typical high-minded and inexperienced bystanders in a situation that is beyond them. Art McKee gives a short but highly capable performance as one of Freddy Page's friends.

Don Gunderson has done a fine job of directing this play with its undertones and fine shadings of human personality. He has kept the drama always believable, never allowing his actors to dramatize themselves, seeing to it that there is a consistent level of good, human behavior which is what makes the play real, gripping and intense. His staff provide that smooth technical assistance without which any play might be doomed, no matter how well-acted . . . and to them goes much credit: Timothy Ewald, stage manager; Michel MacKay, Melodi Brien on the sound and music; Hal Bingaman, lights; and Allyn for make-up.

The Deep Blue Sea runs for five more successive week-ends on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Golden Bough Players Circle.

THE CONSTELLATIONS

"The constellations . . . are not accidental . . ."
—Sir James Jeans

*What far, immense designs are these!
That swing in gems of changing light
Through occult reaches of the night,
Andromeda and Hercules!*

*That turn in giant majesty
Around some mystic median,
In never-changing, ordered plan
That crowns the deep with harmony.*

*Not chance, no cataclysm blind,
Dispersed the suns in purple space,
These patterns on the cosmic face
Were placed there by a mighty mind!*

*Winged with eternal beauty, flies
White Cygnus through the chasmal dark;
The vision need but lift to mark
Its master message in the skies!*

JOURNEY

*Something was promised, something was there
Poised on the brink of the outer air.*

*The caveman felt it and looked beyond
His vantage point of tree and frond.*

*And he that followed so soon after
Reached for the stars from hand-heaven rafter.*

*In fields to till and seeds to pod
Man made his upward trek to God,*

*Forgetting in his zeal that time
Is wasted effort in the climb*

*Unless the heart remembers all
With eyes to see the sparrow's fall!*

SELF PORTRAIT

(After the Korean of Lim Hauk Soo)

*Your smile
Is a high cliff
On which there is a hidden pool
Where water lilies tremble
Silently.*

*Your hoary head
Is that remote mountain
Keeping its blue silences
Where fresh-dripping dew
Is heard.*

*Your eye is a hawk
Soaring in and out of clouds—
Though the weather is wild
Vast oceans of storm
Remain unheard.*

*Alas the passion of youth
Is gone! Happiness is fallen into the mire
And now only loneliness . . .
Your thought goes in and out of fog
And into fog again.*

Artist's Guild Exhibit . . .

BY DORA HAGEMEYER

At the Gallery of the Artists Guild of America on Monte Verde Street near Ocean will be found a most interesting exhibition of oil paintings, water colors and pastels, attractively arranged and well lighted. Among these pictures will be found works by such distinguished artists as Armin Hansen, N. A., Hugo Ballin, N. A., Paul Lauritz, Leslie Emery, N. Hagerup, Nell Walker Warner, Patricia Cunningham, Marshall Merritt, Dorothy Furuya, etc.

It is a privilege to see so much superior work gathered together and to go from picture to picture studying the skill and mastery of the various artists. Anything by Armin Hansen is of course immediately impressive, and the three in this show are no exception. October is a powerful picture, deep-toned yet mellow with autumn, the somber cattle gathered musingly against a gentle sky. Rising Tide is full of light and color, the breakers full-surfing and free. The little still life, Fruit and Glass, is wonderfully clear and fresh. March near Santa Barbara by Hugo Ballin is somewhat unusual for this painter whose religious subjects are so well known. It is a rural scene, the field with the grey-canyoned hill quiet with earth-light, and the old white horse and figures dim yet contrasting subtly with the surrounding subdued tones, the sky freshly blue, patterned with white clouds. The three paintings by Paul Lauritz carry on his fine tradition, the Old Homestead, California Hills, being particularly lovely with its lush green slopes and willows, its red earth newly plowed and the barns seeming to have grown out of the soil, so integral a part of the landscape have they become.

Leslie Emery has a remarkable picture in this group which he has named Sunset. The glowing light on the meditative rugged face, with its rapt expression of wonder and adoration, gives the reflection of the sunset a greater poignancy than the event itself because of its reception and recognition by a human being. A great marine by N. Hagerup dominates the north wall, a picture to study for the delicate nuances and translucence of the water and the turning wave. Nell Walker Warner presents three pictures, a landscape with a great golden sycamore, Italian Fisher Folk, and Chrysanthemums, one of her much admired and beautifully painted flower pictures. Patricia Cunningham's Seiners declares the artist's skill with line and form, enhanced in this picture by an unusual depth of color and dramatic grouping of boats, figures and gulls. Three pictures by Marshall Merritt gain immediate attention in this show by their unusual technique and rugged texture. Barren Hills is a picture wherein the mountains seem actually grooved and molded by the ages and colored by innumerable lichens and mosses and granite-clinging growths.

The work of Dorothy Furuya is often found at this gallery and it never fails to impress the observer with its fine color and light, its delicate strength and sensitivity. Heart of a Rose is more vividly colored than most of her work and it is a little picture which seems to glow from a mysterious light within the flower. John Bingham's two fine paintings, Le Grand Boulevard and Paris in June are full of the sunny gaiety of that enchanting city, the pedestrians seeming to be not merely people but necessary elements of a picture. A remarkable work by Pio Junco, Still in the Stillness, strips away all decoration and reveals only the pure stark outlines of earth and object in striking juxtaposition. Other fine paintings in this room are by Laurence Hosmer, Florence Lockwood, Russell Swan, Alice Stukenbroeker, Harold Landaker, Mason Wright, Rowena R. Smith, Burton Boundey, Linford Donovan and Barbara West.

In the upstairs balcony will be found a varied group of watercolors and pastels, ranging

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
O. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

Conservation is usually defined as "the wise use of our natural resources". Our river systems are certainly one of the most important of these resources. What happens to them, then, by Act of Congress, though the action is primarily in the political field, is of the utmost significance to all true conservationists.

In the case of the Colorado River, one of the largest river systems in the country, there are two uses to be considered for certain parts of it. No one seriously questions the use of the Grand Canyon for inspirational purposes. There are no material benefits here, no question of water power or irrigation. The grandeur of its scenery so influences people that they do not question the value of the intangible benefits that flow from it.

In the case of the canyons of the Green and Yampa Rivers, however, main tributaries of the Colorado, local interests have been very vociferous in claiming that the scenery, acknowledged to be outstanding by everyone who has seen it, is secondary in importance and would be more valuable if buried under several hundred feet of water to create a power reservoir. This is in spite of a decision by Secretary of the Interior Ickes and President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938 that these canyons are more important as a unit of the national park system.

On April 20 these local interests succeeded in persuading the Senate of the United States to vote 52 to 30 that the Echo Park Dam in the scenic heart of Dinosaur National Monument, where the canyons of the Green and Yampa Rivers merge, shall be part of a grandiose project to "develop" the Colorado River system. The Senate then voted 58 to 23 to authorize the entire project.

In the Readers Digest for May Leslie A. Miller, ex-Governor of Wyoming and a member of the distinguished and non-political Hoover Commission Task Group on Reclamation, gives his opinion of this project, which a friend of mine heard Senator Douglas, the greatest foe of "pork-barrel" legislation in the Senate, call "that great boondoggling project". Mr. Miller says: "Bringing water to these lands will cost $906 per acre—yet most of the land, after irrigation, will be worth not more than $150 per acre, according to established values of developed cropland in the area. This cost cannot be justified by any stretch of the imagination". He goes on to say: "A concealed subsidy from the U. S. Treasury involving the payment of interest on Government bonds, brings the cost to at least $2900 per acre".

Fortunately the House of Representatives has still to act. If any readers of this column agree with the distinguished ex-Governor of Wyoming and the famous Senator from Illinois, let them take pen in hand and make their views known to their congressmen.

During the last war Senator Douglas was awarded the Bronze Star for "heroic achievement in action". He should be awarded a corresponding Star for heroic efforts against that great blight on our civilization, pork-barrel legislation.

Stanley Pedder

Stanley Pedder, former resident of Lafayette and Berkeley, and a wellknown corporation attorney of San Francisco and the East Bay who had retired to Carmel, passed away quietly last Thursday at the home of his son, Richard, in Sacramento, where he and Mrs. Pedder were making a brief visit.

Stanley Pedder leaves a host of friends all over the state who will grieve at his sudden passing, but will treasure the memory of this fine man.

Besides his widow, Mabel Pedder of Carmel, he leaves his sons, Jack and Robert of Lafayette, Richard of Sacramento and a daughter, Mrs. Constance Ferguson of Sacramento. Funeral services were private and held in Sacramento.

A native of London, England, where he was born on July 23, 1872, he received his education in London, studying accountancy first, and later completed his work for admittance to the bar. He came to the United States in 1905 and the following year married Miss Mabel Nottage in New York. The couple travelled to San Francisco in 1907 where Mr. Pedder practiced law for many years. He was a senior partner in the firm of Pedder, Ferguson and Pedder at the time of his retirement to Carmel, a director of the Reserve Oil and Gas Company of San Francisco and a member of the Engineers' Club.

Upon his retirement Mr. Pedder became active in many civic and

Soiree Musicale Artistique et Amusante

Plus de soixante-dix personnes, membres de la Causerie Francaise, ont brave les averse pour se reunir samedi dernier dans les beaux salons de Monsier et Madame Edgar Bissantz. Dans ce cadre sobre, mais artistique et elegant, et dans une atmosphere charmante, un programme harmonieusement concu montrait a l'envie le talent de tous les artistes.

La charmante et spirituelle Gaby Bodin, eleve de Madame Andre Ferrier, admirablement accompagnee par Mademoiselle Angie Machado, a chante avec grace et expression plusieurs bergerettes du dix-huitieme siecle et quelques vieux airs bien connus que nos grands-meres chantaient autrefois et qui ne vieilliront jamais. La jolie voix de Gaby Bodin et la concordance de son jeu et de la musique, l'une reglant et inspirant l'autre, lui ont valu un vif succes.

Toujours au programme Mademoiselle Angie Machado et Monsieur Gilbert Boyer, deux pianistes distingues, et dont on n'a plus a faire l'eloge, ont execute a deux pianos avec leur virtuosite et leur maitrise habituelles: Petite Suite de Claude Debussy.

Des applaudissements prolonges ont montre l'appréciation de tout l'auditoire. Cette soiree deja si bien reussie s'est terminée d'une maniere tres gaie et tres intime avec le concours de tour les invites qui ont chante en chœur de vieilles chansons francaises fredonnees un peu partout, meme aux Etats Unis. Afin que tout le monde puisse prendre part a ces chansons, La Causerie Francaise a eu l'excellente idee de projeter les paroles sur le mur du salon. Among Mr. Pedder's other activities he was a member of the Peninsula Community Hospital Association and when the Golden Bough Theater was incorporated in Carmel gave legal advice to the members of the board. Indian Publisher To Speak Before World Affairs Group

Sambu Nath Jha of Kanpur, India, editor and publisher of Advance, Kanpur English daily newspaper, and of Vishwamitra, Hindi daily, will speak at a round table discussion of India Today to be held Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the cafeteria at Sunset School. The meeting, sponsored by the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula, will be open to members of the Council only. Refreshments will be served.

Visiting the United States as a participant in the Foreign Leaders' program of the State Department, Mr. Jha is studying newspaper operation and observing labor-management relations. The newspapers which he publishes have a circulation of 25,000.

Mr. Potter will return to Sacramento on Monday for further discussions of the bill.

The president, Dr. B. J. Balcar, appointed a nominating committee for the election of new officers in June, during the business part of the meeting. The next meeting will be held on June 5 at the Grahams' home in Carmel Woods. The guest artist will be Mrs. N. B. Anderson of Lompoc.

Sunday Wedding for Meta

Last Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in the Church of the Wayfarer, Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiating, Meta Abbe became the bride of Major William Zarrow of Fort Ord.

Given in marriage by her brother, George Gossler of San Francisco, the bride wore an ice-blue gown of imported French cotton brocade designed by Helga. A silver braided coronet set off her striking blonde hair and her flowers were blue and white delphiniums.

Rose Gossler of Carmel, maid-of-honor for her sister, was dressed in periwinkle-blue cotton brocade with white accessories and white flowers, a wreath of the same blossoms in her hair. General Robert B. McClure (Ret.) was best man for Major Zarrow.

The reception for over a hundred guests was held in the Fort Ord Officers' Club where the bridal table, covered by a priceless lace cloth was centered by a four-tiered wedding cake surrounded with pink carnations. The health of the newlyweds was toasted in champagne punch.

Major Zarrow left this week for Fort Douglas, Utah, and will be joined there by Mrs. Zarrow around the first of June.

Editor
Carmel Pine Cone
Carmel, California
Dear Sir:

The California Roadside Council wishes to express appreciation of your excellent interview with Col. Charles W. Furlong in which he spoke of the destruction of scenic values of the United States by the spread of the billboard blight. We commend, for special consideration, the statement of Col. Furlong which your news item quotes, "Beauty and good civic development are practical commercial assets." The value of the natural scenic beauty of this State and the importance of preserving it in the interest of tourist appeal as well as our own enjoyment is beginning at last to impress itself upon the public mind. Those who make our laws, however, need constantly to be reminded of this fact. Too long delay in bringing our laws up to date in this respect means a double problem tomorrow after an increasing spread of billboards along rural highways has entrenched this blight more securely.

The revised County Zoning Ordinance drawn up by the County Planning staff and endorsed by the Planning Commission takes a long step in the right direction. In order to ensure its adoption by the Board of Supervisors, every far-sighted citizen should write a letter to the President of the Board and to his own District Supervisor expressing the hope that this revised Ordinance will be adopted.

Very sincerely yours,
Yale Maxon
Corresponding Secretary

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

At a recent meeting of the Book Committee of the Harrison Memorial Library, it was voted to hold meetings regularly on the second Thursday of the month. Mr. Franklin Breuer was elected chairman of the group. Other members who attended the meeting were Mr. Larry Barretto, Mrs. Jerome Werner, Mrs. David Marshall, Mrs. Ferdinand Haasis, and Mrs. Ted Durein. The business session was followed by a spirited discussion of forthcoming books.

In case your little boy or girl is mourning the loss of a white plush kitten with green eyes, or you have lost a tan coat, a blue jacket, a child's leather jacket, a couple of umbrellas, or any one of a lot of other objects, you might check at the library. We are about to call some charitable organization to clear out our lost-but-not-found compartment. The slogan "Try first at your public library" has an added meaning here.

The King James version of the Bible and the First Folio edition of Shakespeare's works are said to be the two greatest books in the cultural history of English speaking peoples. The library now has a copy of the facsimile edition of the first folio, which was first published in London in 1623. A copy of the original edition sold most recently for one hundred thousand dollars. This facsimile edition is not a rare book, but it is a valuable and rather expensive one. It will be on exhibit in the library for the customary short while and after that will circulate to responsible patrons in accordance with the new borrowing policy of the library.

NEW LEGION COMMANDER ALVIN CHAPIN

Commander of Carmel's American Legion Post No. 512 for the coming year will be Alvin Chapin. He was elected at the meeting held on Monday evening. Serving with him will be the following officers: first vice-commander, Joe Oenning; second vice-commander, Dick Hendricks; adjutant, Jim Kelsey; first sergeant-at-arms, Fabian Era; second sergeant-at-arms, Paul Artellian; chaplain, John Chitwood; historian, Dick Zimmerman; finance officer, William Giles. Newly elected members of the executive committee are Jim Sutherland, John Chitwood, Jake May, Jack Shannon and Frank Girard. Carmel Post now has a membership of 236.

UNITED CHURCH WOMEN MEETING TOMORROW

May Fellowship Day will be observed tomorrow by church women of the Peninsula beginning with brunch at 11:00 o'clock at the Methodist Church in Pacific Grove. Business matters will be considered while at the table, with panel discussion in the auditorium in the early afternoon.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The fact that man's real nature in God's likeness is unfallen, upright, and free will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Readings from the King James Version of the Bible and correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will comprise the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man."

Among the passages to be read from Science and Health is the following: "The divine nature was best expressed in Christ Jesus, who threw upon mortals the truer reflection of God and lifted their lives higher than their poor thought-models would allow, — thoughts which presented man as fallen, sick, sinning, and dying" (259:6-11 The).

The Golden Text is from 1 Corinthians (15:22): "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

Membership Drive Is On For Peninsula Concert Association

A one-week membership campaign is being carried on this week by the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association and at the end of this period memberships will be closed to the 1955-56 series of concerts, given under the sponsorship of this group. Three concerts are guaranteed to those subscribing and no single tickets are sold for any presentation, only season ticket holders being eligible for admission.

In past years world famous artists have been brought to the peninsula by the association and this year's artists will be announced as soon as the campaign is over and the budget is known. Concerts will be held in the evenings in the Pacific Grove High School on dates to be announced later. In the past, under the group's auspices, such performers as Rose Bampton, Tossy Spivakovsky, Vivian Della Chiesa and many others have been presented to local audiences. Headquarters for the drive are the Grove Pharmacy in Pacific Grove or Abinante's Music Store in Monterey.

2nd Williams-Lofton Death Valley Trek, Official Report, Part 1

(Continued from Page One) came to the juniper and pinon pine belts. We passed numerous uranium hunters, nestling their scintillometers under their jackets. Near the head of the canyon we found nine giant stone beehives, lining the road like prehistoric dwellings. Built around 1860 by Chinese laborers under Swedish engineers, these beehives supplied not honey but charcoal for the mines in the valley. Deserted and beautiful, they offer shelter not even to bats. We considered spending the night in one of them but decided to go on up the canyon and maybe get out of the wind.

At the head of the canyon we found Mahogany Flat from which there was no place to go but eight thousand feet, straight down to the floor of Death Valley. In a howling gale we made camp and settled down in our sleeping bags to spend the night. We were only mildly disturbed during the night by some people in a Dodge house truck who decided about 3:00 a.m. that this was no place for reasonable human beings to sleep and pulled out. While the malignant and frigid wind howled and rattled in the dry Mahogany bushes, we pulled our heads deeper in the sleeping bags, drew our red canvas sail tighter over our heads, and felt a little superior about our hardiness.

The sun did rise and so did Dick and Melissa, who prowled about while the rest of us stayed in bed until way past 7:00. A curious yellow look the sun had, reaching long fingers down into the valley below us, spreading out over the wide blue reaches of the salt flats.

We alternately admired the view and chased after pieces of our equipment galloping away in the wind. While the wind blew and an ominous saucer-shaped cloud hung over our heads beyond Telescope Peak, we packed up again. Dick and Russell had the art of packing down to a fine point by now. Foot lockers with food and cooking equipment on the bottom, then clothing bags and book boxes, topped with foam rubber mattresses and sleeping bags. Within five minutes of stopping, Russell had the sleeping bags and foam rubber mattresses out and ready for occupancy wherever we were. He christened the foam mattresses, Blo-No-Mo, as an answer to the air mattress people. My packing was a little confused on Mahogany Flats by my frequent attempts to pick up white sheets lying on the ground which kept turning out to be snow banks.

From Mahogany Flats we went to Aguerreberry Point, another craggy lookout over the valley. We wanted to size up our old camp grounds at the Eagle Borax Works and discover how many Boy Scouts, uranium hunters and trailer equipped campers we would have to dislodge before we found the solitude we sought. The valley still looked empty from this angle, when we could see it through the wind. While Dick painted, the rest of us lodged ourselves in crevices in the rock and had tea and read. A small group of army personnel had installed networks and matworks of mysterious wires and poles. They had also installed a sign by the path leading to the ultimate jumping off place which asked provocatively, "Have you seen the singing squirrel?" and pointed to a cage perched on the peak over our heads. Not at all wary we scrambled up to look in the cage in which we found the inevitable notice: "If you see the singing squirrel put him in here. We'd like to see him too." This sign was equalled in poignancy only by another we had found in Wild Rose Canyon by a large clump of Panamint daisies. "Don't pick me," this one plead. "Leave me for seed." It was signed P. Daisy.

The first Lofton canvas came to birth on the edge of Aguerreberry Point where the wind was so strong it made the canvas vibrate like a harp string while Dick tried to paint. As he painted he was making rapid calculations for anchoring the three legs of his easel in bedrock next time he painted.

From Aguerreberry Point we went down through the Panamint

The winners will read their essays at this time and the public is asked to attend. Refreshments will be served after the meeting which is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Bonnie Giles. Winners in the Poppy Poster contest will also be present and this year's Girls' State representative from the High School, Barbara Mitchell, has been asked to speak.

Judges for the essay contest were Mrs. Florence Updike, Mrs. Karen Hicks and William Bjornvold. As usual, the winning essays will be published in full in next week's Pine Cone.

Mountains, our ear drums snapping continually at the rapid change in altitude, to enter the floor of the valley through Emigrant Pass. The emigrants had been smart enough to leave the valley here but we were going in. The same wind was howling at our heels and blowing up enough sand to refurbish the Sahara. We decided the wind would have to stop blowing someplace, and the wide reaches of the valley looked full of places to test the jeep, so we went. The wind finally did stop blowing. Then it blew the other way. Sometimes it blew two ways at once.

The valley looked good. More color and space than any place else, with wide alluvial fans tying the mountains and the valley floor together. Past Furnace Creek Ranch we went, stopping briefly for water, gas and a real, civilized supper, while the wind rattled the palm trees. Then off again down the valley in the night, leaving all lights behind us. We speculated about the Eagle Borax Works, wondering if it had really existed two years before. Across salt flats, through mesquite thickets, over stretches of greasewood and desert holly we went, finally turning off the main road down a familiar stretch of desert trail to find the Borax Works.

It was still there. Even in the dark it looked the same. A most unlikely place to find in Death Valley. Tall tamarisk trees sheltered a pool of clear water and the ground was covered with grass and succulent plants. Down went the red sail, out came the foot lockers and the boxes.

Carnival Raises Enough to Provide Three Scholarships

Two graduating seniors at Carmel High School will receive scholarships of $225 each from the money raised last Saturday by the Girls' League at the annual P.T.A.-Girls' League Carnival. Another scholarship of $80 will be given by the high school section of the P.T.A. from the proceeds of their two concessions. The coffers of the general fund of the P.T.A. will benefit from the rest of the money gathered in at the bake and needlework sales, amounting to $225.

Winners in the parade were as follows: in the funniest class three little girls from Bay School disguised as the Three Little Pigs carried away the honors. They were Tasha Doner, Honey Williams and Janice Briggs. The most original costumes were worn by Kathy Miller and Janice Way of Sunset School and the best decorated bikes were judged to belong to Jane Lushbaugh and Jack Hinchcliff of Sunset. In the high school best-decorated-car class, Don Petty won the award.
